They were granted in 1791-1796 to Samuel Avery,-whether for "cur-rent coin of the realm," or for services for the infant State, is to me unknown. Most of them were long ago annexed to towns. Those which have existed since 1840 are (1) in A dison county, 8,744 acres, now a part of L nesta and Granville; (2) in Chittenien coun y, 5 970 acres, now a part of Huntington; (3) in E sex county, 10,685 scres, now existing; (4) in Franklin county, 9,723 month I was able to help do my work. On the 27th of May my baby came, and I was only sick three hours, and had an easy time. The doctor said I got along In folk lore stories there is frequent mention of changelings—children who were changed by fairy influence. Some loving wife and proud husband found their child weak of body, and sometimes weak of mind. It grew up to be fretful, sullen and perhaps spiteful. It seemed impossible that love could bring such a child into the world. So the child was called a fairy changeling, a child substituted by the fairies for one whom in their envy for its lovliness they had carried away. In folk lore stories there is frequent "We praise Dr. Pierce's medicine for it has cured me. I am better now than I have been for thirteen years. I hope all how are afflicted will do as I have done and be cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a perfect medicine for women. It establishes regularity, dries the drains which weaken women, heals inflammation and cures female weakness. It is the best preparative for maternity, strengthening ness they had carried away.

We hear no more of fairy stories.

Stern science says that healthy and lovely children must have healthy parents, and that when the mother in her days of waiting and anticipation is the nerves, encouraging the appetite and inducing refreshing sleep. It gives the mother strength to give her child and make the baby's advent practically pain-

WHAT A MAN OF FORTY-FIVE OUGHT TO KNOW.—By Sylvanus Stali, D. D., Vir Publishing Co., 1134 Real E-tate Trust Building, Phiadelphia, 284 pp. Price $1. It has been aptly said that a man at forty-five is either a fool or a physician. In the earlier books of this Self and Sex Series, the author, Sylvanus Stall, D. D., associate power of Doctor Pierce's editor of the Lutheran Observer, has Favorite Prescription may | sought to save young boys, young men e all summed up in the and young husbands from mistakes phrase "It makes weak which can only be avoided by intelliwomen strong, sick gence. "During my two years life. Perhaps it may be truthfully said of married life I have not that men of forty-five are as ignorant had good health," writes of the nature of the changes through Mrs. Daisy Studdard, of which they are passing as boys at the period of adolescence. In this book, Dr. Stall, in that honest, frank and my husband got me to tearless, but pure and matchless way write to Dr. Pierce and which distinguishes the earlier books of the series, sets forth the character of the changes which occur to the physical life of both men and women. me any good. From year to year, we have commended to the public this journal, whose field it is to keep a close outlook on the world of letters, and report what it finds worthy of reading and study, and what, on the contrary seems to it to have little merit It has chosen a great and much-needed work, a work that perhaps might be said to be "a profession," in itself. DON'T BE TOO AMBITIOUS. By Mrs. Barbara Sadler.

Don't try to do too much. No better dvice than this can be given any young usekeeper, or even to an old house oper who gets flustered when she has company to dinner or even afternoon allers. The woman who lives humbly nd is satisfied with the cooking of n simple repast six days in a week will hardly jump into the preparation of a six-course dinner and not make a bun-

Keep down the bill to a number of lishes that you know you can cook and cook well and you and your friends will

The trying to do too much has ruines many a dinner that would otherwise have been most enjoyable. It is only from small beginnings that we reach the banquet stage of existence. A simple soup, fish, roast or entree, with deis enough for any ordinary occasion that can be prepared on any ordi nary range with comfort.

Again let me suggest, never try experiments on your guests. Cook for company only those things that you know you can prepare well. Experiment when alone and when you are sure you have the proper combination you can surprise your friends. I give some dishes you will find desirable.

Roast Woodcock, Suipe, etc.
Dress them well. Put a bit of butter, pepper and salt, mixed, into the body, or fill with mashed potatoes, seasoned with bit of butter, pepper, and salt, and solstened with milk; cut off the pinions moistened with milk; cut off the pintons at the first joint; fasten the legs close to the ribs, and turn the head backward, sticking the bill between the leg and the body; rub over with pepper and salt, and roast with a hot fire; baste with a cup of water and batter; dredge flour or rolled cracker over, and baste almost continually for the last five minutes; serve on toast.

Veal Cutlets-Curried. The cutlets may be prepared by cut-ting them into shape, dipping them into yolks of eggs, and seasoning them h fine bread crumbs, about four tablespoonfuls, two spoonfuls of curry powder, and one of salt; fry them in fresh butter; serve with curry sauce, which may be made with equal parts of curry powder, flour and butter, worked well together into a paste; put it into the pan from which the cutlets have been removed, moisten with a cupful of water, in which enyence and salt have been stirred; let it thicken, and serve Hashed Mutton.

Cut the cold mutton into slices, as uniform in size as possible; flour them; pepper and salt them; put them into a pepper and salt them; put them into a stewpan, with some gravy made of an onion stewed with whole pepper and toasted bread, in a pint of water, to which a little walnut ketchup has been added—this gravy should be stewed two hours before using—do not let the hash boil; when it is done, add a little thickening of butter, flour, and water, if required, and serve up with the slices of toasted bread.

Mutton like Ventson. A haunch or leg will be the most applicable. The joint should be hung as long as it can be with safety, and dressed exactly like a haunch of venison and served with the same sauces; but t make the taste more perfectly resemble that of venison, it should, after having been hung to the turn, be skinped, and laid in a pan with vinegar and water two parts of the former to one of th latter, not enough to cover it; put in fagot of herbs, a clove of garlic, spoonful of whole pepper, and a coupl of onions, cut in slices; let it soak three days; dry it well; hang it for a day, and roast as venison. It may also be put into a stewpan, with half a pint of grayy, and simmer four hours; sery with venison sauce.

SAUCE, BROWN Take a pound or two of steaks, two or three pounds of veal, some pickings of fowls, carrots and onions; put all these into a saucepan with a glass of water, and set it on a brisk fire; when scarcely any moisture remains, put it on a slow fire that the jelly may take the color without burning; and as soon as it is brown, moisten it with stock or water; add a bunch of green onions or parsley, two cloves; salt it well, and set it on the fire for three hours, then strain in; buil it half an hour over a gentle fire; take off all the fat, and run it through a bolting-cloth, or fine sieve.

CREAM SAUCE. Put into a stewpon a little butter, a little pareley, and a few green onlons, all cut small; turn them a few times over the fire, then add some flour, and moisten with cream or milk; let the whole boil for a quarter of an hour; whole boil for a quarter of an non-strain off the sance, and when you want it for use, put in a little butter, some parsley, just scalded and chopped fine, solt and whole pepper; then thicken the same over the fire; this may be used with all hinds of dishes that are done white. RREAD SAUCE. Take crimbs of bread, soak them in milk, and put them over the fire with a small piece of butter, a tittle salt, mace. two or three cloves, some whole pepper, and a very little chopped onion; stow it slowly until the bread is thoroughly boiled up with the milk; it should be perfectly smooth, and of the consistency

COD SAUCE. Take a banch of parsley, a small onlon, two cloves some mushrooms, and a bir of butter; soak all together on the fire, adding a small tenspoonful of flour, and milk or cream sufficient to boil to the consistence of a same, and add to the consistence of a same, and add to it some chopped parsley first scalded. CAPER SAUCE FOR EISH. Take some melted butter, into which throw a small bit of glase; and when the sauce in a state of readiness, throw into it some choice enpers, sait and pepper, and a spoonful of essence of an-

BEEF POFTED,
Take three pounds of lean beef, salt it two or three days with half a pound of salt and half an onnee of saltpetre, divide it into pieces of a pound each and put it into an earthen pan just sufficient to contain it; pour in half a plat of water, cover it close with paste and set it in a slow oven for four hours. When taken from the oven pour the gravy from it late a basin, shred the meat line, moisten it with the gravy poured from the meat and pound it. poured from the meat, and pound it thoroughly in a marble mortar with fresh butter, until it becomes a fine paste, season it with black pepper and allspice, or cloves pounded, or nutneg grabed; put it in pots, mass it down us close as possible, put a weight on it and let it stare all night; next day, when quite cold, excertit a quarter of an in a over with paper.

LOBSTERS POTTED. Take out the meat as whole as yo can, split the tail, and remove the gut if the inside is not watery add that season with muce, nutmeg, white perper, salt, and one or two cloves in the per, salt, and one or two cloves in the finest powder; put a little butter at the bottom of the pan, and the lobsters smooth over; bake it gently. When done pour the whole on the battom of the sieve, and with a fork lay the pieces into potting jars some of each sort, with the seasoning about it; when cold pour clarified lattice over it, but if not, it will be good the day after it is done, and if be good the day after it is done, and it sensoned high, and thickly covered with butter will keep some time. Potted lobsters may be used cold, or as frienssee with with erenn sauce.

PARSNIP FRITTERS. Boll four or five parsnips; when ten-der, take off the skin and mash them fine, add to them a tenspoonful of flour and a beaten egg; put a tablespoonful of lard or beef dripping in a frying pan of lard or beef dripping in a frying pan over the fire, add to it a saltspoonful of salt; when boiling hot, put in the pars-nips, make it in small cakes with a spoon; when one side is a delicate brown, turn the other; when both are done, take them on a dish, put a very little of the fat in which they were fried over, and serve hot. These resemble very nearly the taste of the salsify or oyster plant, and will generally be pre-

PARK J. HARRINGTON COUNTY.

IntCounty Court, September Term, 1901.

Whereas, Mary E. Harrington of Northfield, in the County of Washington, has this day filed in the office of the Clerk of the County Court for the County of Washington, her libel for divorce against Park J. Harrington, setting forth in substance that she was lawfully married to the said Park J. Harrington on the 16th day of January, A. D. 1897; that she on her part had faithfully kept her marriage covenant, but that the said Park J. Harrington on his part had not kept the same for that the said Park J. Harrington had treated the petitioner with intolerable severity; and being of sufficient pecuniary and physical ability to provide main tenance for her, has ever without cause, refused and neglected so to do; and praying that for the causes aforesaid the court grant her a divorce from the said Park J. Harrington and also praying for alimony and custody of minor child.

And, whereas it is made to appear that the said Park J. Harrington resides without the State, where the process of this Court cannot be served upon him, it is therefore, ordered that the said Park J. Harrington be notified of the pendency of said libel and given opportunity to make defence therein, and summoned to appear and make answer thereto before the Honorable County Court next to be held at Montpelier, within and for the County of Washington, on the first Wednesday after the first Tuesday in September, A.
